To Become All Things To All Men.

From a humble stable in Bethlehem, to a lonely Cross on Calvary, to a glorious resurrection—so it was that Jesus Christ, the Son of God, by His life and teaching became all things to all men.

Through the passing ages, man has obscured the beautiful example of Christ's selfless giving by war and dissension. Conference tables offer meaningless solutions and the world seems lost in chaos.

Then from the Eternal City comes the voice of Christ's Vicar calling an ecumenical council to cure the ills of our divided world. As preparation for this meeting, that it may establish anew the reign of Christ in the modern world, we Centralites have offered to God our daily living to become all things to all men.

We Traversed Many Roads.

Base of Operations

Through the untiring efforts of her past and present administrators, Central has attained the status of a leader in the field of Catholic education.

Since the day of its purchase in 1939, the one-time mansion has undergone many innovations. Recent ones include the Main Office which has been relocated in more spacious headquarters and a new sewing room on the third floor.

To accommodate the record enrollment of 1281 students eight classes of freshmen were assigned to homerooms in the annex.

Most Reverend Joseph McShea, D.D., Ph.D.

Under the kindly guidance of the Most Reverend Joseph McShea, the Allentown diocese was organized into a working system. Despite the countless demands on his time necessitated by the various steps of organization, Bishop McShea, graciously condescended to open the first Teachers' Institute of the newly formed diocese by the celebration of Holy Mass at Sacred Heart Church. In separate meetings with each group of teachers, the Bishop gave words of encouragement and guidance to his teachers. Several times His Excellency visited Reading to administer the Sacrament of Confirmation at the various parishes and to bless the cornerstone of the new parochial school of St. Paul Parish.

Reverend Henry J. Huesman

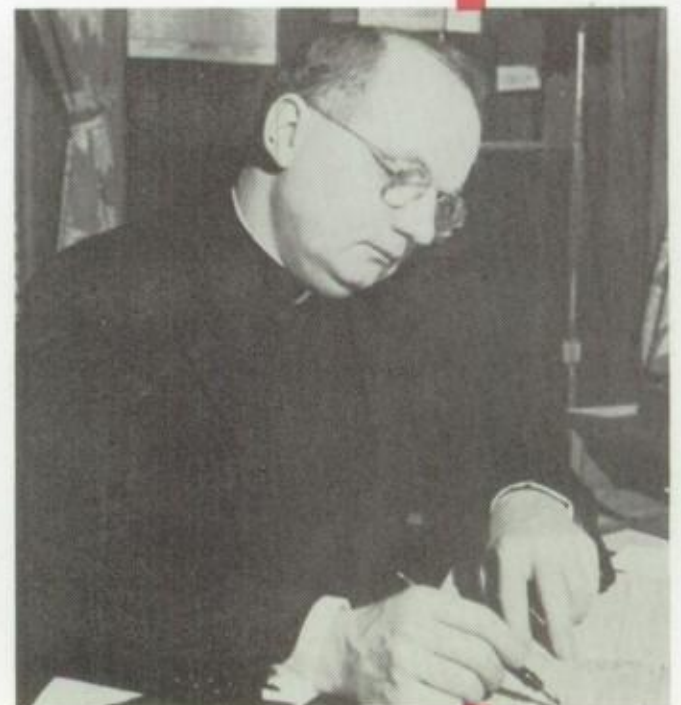

Filling a triple role—pastor of St. Paul Parish, superintendent of schools for the Allentown diocese, and rector of Central Catholic High—the Reverend Henry J. Huesman still manages to find time to be keenly interested in events at our school. The first regular class day, Father opened our school year with the Mass of the Holy Spirit. During the course of the term in his capacity as superintendent of schools, Father attended educational conventions at New Orleans and Pittsburgh.

For the financial and spiritual aid so generously given to Central, Father Huesman receives the sincere thank you of every student.

Reverend Raymond J. Leichner

Untiring in his efforts to make Central an outstanding educational center, our principal, the Reverend Raymond J. Leichner directed all the activity of the school. Interested in the formation of alert well-informed Catholic citizens, Father encouraged competition at both the local and national level. His interest and concern in the students' academic progress inspired confidence and top performance. As assistant superintendent of schools, Father had added duties, but as a zealous priest his main efforts were directed toward the formation of the Christlife in the students. Weekly Mass and an opportunity to receive the sacraments are the chief means Father offers to Centralites to aid them in forming strong characters to combat the immorality of the day.

Dedicated To Christ

Working hours extend long past regular class time for Central's priest faculty. Teaching at St. Joseph's Hospital School of Nursing occupied Fathers Bednarik and Dickert. Under the magic baton of Father Zolondek the nurses' chorus blends in harmony. Father Forst comes to the aid of St. Margaret's choir. Forensic moderator, Father Kelly worked hard to add more honors to Central's record. Head of the Allentown Forensic Union, Father Ferry arranged several practice rounds. Besides his duties at Central, Father Fricker heads the athletic board of the diocese.

As the eight o'clock bell announced the beginning of another busy day, thirty-three Sisters prepared to meet the oncoming classes. Holding degrees from several outstanding Catholic colleges and universities, the Sisters are well prepared to help us in our quest for knowledge.

Although only three Sisters teach religion, all the Sisters give the touch of Catholicism to art, science, literature, social studies—all courses that should propel us toward an appreciation of the better things of life.

Sister M. Alethia participated in the evaluation of Haverford Senior High School. Sister was chairman of the English committee. Science lectures attracted the Franciscan Sisters while demonstrations in modern math were attended by the Bernardine Sisters.

Classes

Let me work with Christ's devotion to duty, to the will of God,
and for the glory of God,
Let my soul be His Nazareth, let Christ in me be among
my fellow-workers,
and be in ways I do not know,
light to them and strength.
Let them be happier because in me
He has, with exquisite courtesy, chosen to be among them.

After examining some modern publications, junior religion students, F. Rochtashel, R. Wagner, R. Zajac, M. Hynes, and J. Garvie will testify to the growth of Catholic Press in America.

Two seconds before test time, G. Gusavage makes a last minute check to assure J. Klick and P. Ricci of the truth of his statement.

This We Believe

Of the utmost importance at Central is Catholic Action which stems from the knowledge and love of God. It is through the religion class that students learn to combat the false materialistic philosophy of the present day.

Our four-year journey begins with a complete study of the life of Jesus Christ. Having followed Christ from Bethlehem to Jerusalem, sophomores turn their attention to the growth and development of His Mystical Body. Realizing that not by the words alone will man enter the kingdom of heaven, juniors spend their daily religion period expanding and summarizing the moral code of the Ten Commandments. On the threshold of the adult world, seniors delve into a reasonable explanation of our Catholic truths of faith.

On our graduation day, we will assume our places in society, well prepared to meet its challenge, for we have received a complete education.

What's The Word?

As D. Mosher scans her text, G. Radke enacts a scene from Macbeth on his puppet stage. J. Nawa enjoys illustrations of the same play.

There's fun afoot in English I as E. Yahner checks on R. Tomcics's telephone technique.

A taping session tops the day's agenda for sophomore Shakespearian students, A. Langan and H. Jones.

As pens flew across paper, students revealed hidden literary talent and produced essays and poems for the national high school anthologies as well as original material for the school's first literary magazine.

While seniors spent countless hours assembling information on term papers, juniors delved into the mysteries of short story writing. Underclassmen wrote essays and made posters for various English projects. New vocabulary books proved beneficial to all students.

Eight new records, including highlights of Macbeth, Tale of Two Cities, and the Rime of the Ancient Mariner, were added to the visual aids of this department. Dramatization of famous scenes from some of the required readings stimulated interest in the classics. Besides providing entertainment, films like David Copperfield and Chaucer's The Pardoner's Tale helped students to understand and appreciate their literary heritage.

With an eye toward satisfying the growing demand for scientists, the Science Department now boasts a cathode ray oscilloscope, audi-oscillator, recording timer, and stratoscope. Science magazines and periodicals also aid this department to keep up with various important scientific findings.

The Junior Chemists' Club, under the sponsorship of the Reading Chemists' Club met monthly to tour local industries. A. Boland and B. Pomeroy accompanied by Sister John Catherine attended the Middle Atlantic Science Symposium held at Temple University, Philadelphia. A group of seniors traveled to Villanova University to view the new science building.

Climaxing the year 100 Centralites displayed their projects in the school science fair held in late January. Of these 75 were selected to represent the school in the annual Reading-Berks Science Fair held at Albright College in April.

Reach For The Stars.

With the aid of T. Szymanski, R. Chelstowski explores the mysteries of a terrarium.

Recording data, calculating frequencies, securing connections, and adjusting controls busy M. Ustaszewski, J. Klick, J. Frantz, and E. Didyoung in the preparatory check of the cathode ray oscilloscope.

Numbers Racket

As the demand for skilled mathematicians increases, so also does the number of students who pursue the mathematics course. Centralites battled manfully to find the elusive under the competent direction of the Bernardine Sisters.

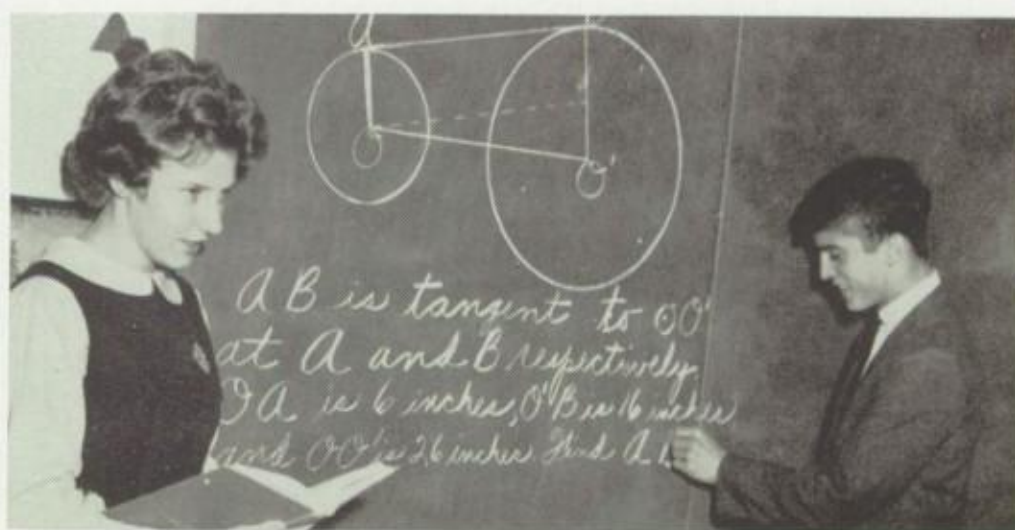

Contestwise this department scored a win when James Duchynski claimed a spot on the student honor roll of the October issue of School Science and Math. Jim submitted a correct solution to a problem during the spring of the previous year. For the fourth consecutive year, Centralites entered the Mathematics Contest of the Society of Actuaries.

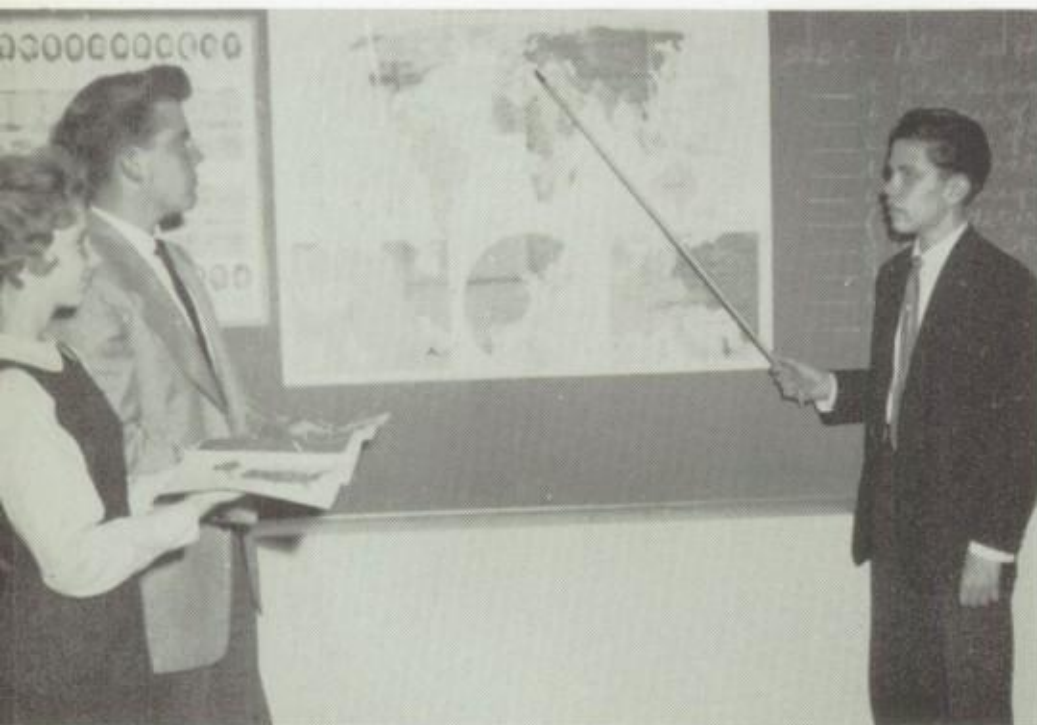

Lip biting benefits R. Soltis as he discovers a solution for a problem in Algebra II.

While it appears that A. McGavin, J. Melcher, and J. Irvin are preparing to paper the room, they're actually showing the class all the possible functions of angles.

Circles and tangents prove no problem for J. Wendell and C. Michiewicz in plane geometry class.

Meet the experts! R. Mulligan, J. Hofmann, and P. Napiecek give the class a socialized recitation on the glories of ancient Egypt.

Through The Arches Of Time.

Debate preparation means research. J. Naso, J. Burrows, J. Wenrich, J. Malecki, M. Barrasso, G. Gross, and N. Carabello consult nationally famous sources.

Examining various projects on the Keystone State, J. Cimochowski, D. Damore, L. Gudz, H. Jones, and C. Grimm learn many interesting facts about Pennsylvania.

From primitive man and his surroundings to the atomic age and its problems—this vast scope of time is covered by Central's history program.

Projects on ancient Egypt attracted annex freshmen. American and modern European history enthusiasts enjoyed several instructive films. Sponsored by the ACES, a field trip to local industries gave seniors a close view of the American competitive system in action.

Foreign Intrigue

T. Hydock in the guise of a French peasant brings a bit of old world atmosphere to the halls of Central.

French, German, Spanish, Latin. Central's academic students tried to arrive at a better knowledge of the people of the world by an understanding of their language and customs.

Breaking the pinata, a Christmas custom of gay Mexico came to life for Spanish III students. By means of a P.A.S. program sophomores of Latin II class portrayed many of the customs of the ancient Romans. Interest in the Berlin election and the cold war problem of Berlin gave material for many interesting discussions to German II students. As is the custom at Central, French students entertained the student body at a well-planned spring assembly.

Berlin election results provides a new field of interest for German students, W. Tucker, K. Kline, and A. Cassel.

As a means of becoming acquainted with Spanish culture, P. Donahue, B. Adams, R. Grossman, and W. Pawelski leaf through the works of great Spanish artists.

Junior artists, B. Siegle, J. Gross, and M. Kreuzberger smile broadly as they put the last touch to their linoleum block prints.

Montage, collage, papier colle—words of mystery to the uninitiated, but to Central's art students these forms of expression helped to constitute an exciting and challenging year. Besides regular class assignments, the junior and senior art students produced attractive displays for the bulletin board near the gym and furnished several beautiful panels as a simple but devotional decoration for the annual Christmas assembly. Since the purpose of the high school art course is to give the students a broad knowledge of the various media he may use to express his ideas, there was no time for specialization. However, under the capable direction of Sister M. Anne-marie, many students found the type of art that best suited him.

Future draftsmen and engineers learned the necessity of neat accurate work in the drawing of plans as they pursued their study of mechanical drawing. This course is offered to juniors and seniors.

Beauty Is Truth.

Commemorating U. N. Day, seniors S. Miller, M. Young, L. Noon, F. Swavely, and S. Cambria prepare a display of drawings based on the political and economic rights of the American Credo.

Before modeling their creations for the rest of the class, M. Guziejewski, P. Curry, and J. Mull receive some last minute instructions from Sister M. Stanislaus.

Master chefs of home economics class, J. Wenrich, P. Buckley, and C. Roth display tasty tidbits from foreign lands.

Kitchen Capers.

Sophomore members of the Home Economics Department completed a busy schedule of activities this year. The girls participated in a home nursing course and at its successful completion were awarded certificates. Needlework ranked high with this class as they crocheted stoles, rugs, and scarves.

Bright reds, blues and the ever popular plaids were much in evidence as junior girls stitched away on their Christmas ensembles. This same group prepared original spring outfits also.

Early in November the senior girls attended the cooking school at the Abraham Lincoln Hotel which was sponsored by WEEU and UGI. Later in the month home economists of UGI provided an experiment in Space Age Cooking.

Besides instructions in sewing and cooking, these sixty girls received training in the Christian ideals of family living which should aid them in becoming exemplary Catholic homemakers.

Practice makes perfect so P. Binasiewicz, J. Bonanno, M. Weber, E. Auchter, and K. Mauger give their full attention to the task at hand.

Help Wanted?

Efficiency is the keynote of the modern business world and through its commercial course, Central trains students to accept responsible positions in the business field.

Although records used by commercial classes may not make the Hit Parade, stenography students found that dictation discs are an invaluable aid in building up speed and accuracy. Typists followed the maxim that practice makes perfect and strove to produce perfect copies in the shortest time possible.

As part of their training, seniors were given an aptitude test by the Employment Bureau. Guided by the results a representative of the company suggested suitable work for each student.

As E. Koenig puts on a dictation disc, H. Matisick and P. Gemmill prepare to speed at 120 wpm.

Eda Schifalacqua

Valedictorian

Top student of the Class of '62, Eda Schifalacqua took an active part in all affairs at Central. As co-editor of Centralma, Eda devoted much time and thought to the development of the theme and the organization of the book. Other major extra-curricular activities in which Eda shared included her position of vice president of the National Honor Society, a trophy winning ability in original oratory and a spot on the weekly radio program. Eda also filled the position of council member for Senior 4. Hard study paid off in the form of a full tuition scholarship to Seton Hill College and an honor scholarship to Trinity College. Eda's future plans are not completed as we go to press, but she hopes to major in romance languages at one of these colleges.

A lively book review sessions captures the interest of M. Arnold, A. Boland, I. Endter and P. Garito, all of whom merited fifteen or sixteen first honor cards.

Robert Hehn

Salutatorian

Another honor came to Robert Hehn this year when he found that his position of highest boy in the class made him responsible for the salutatory oration this June. Serving as president of the National Honor Society and as council member for Senior 2, Robert still found time to participate in the activities of the forensic union. After school hours, his favorite habitat is the journalism room where he serves as page one editor. His by-line is also frequently found on the sports page of Hillside Echoes. Youth day found Robert busy at City Hall when he assumed the duties of mayor for the day. In the fall Robert hopes to matriculate at St. Joseph's College. The electronics physics course will play an important role in his future plans.

Tuning up session. M. Flemming, J. Garvie, and D. DiPietro represent the junior contribution to the string section.

In their quest for maturity, third year students applied themselves diligently to the study of various branches of knowledge. College bound students puzzled over geometry problems and chemistry formulae while future business personnel learned the intricacies of the Gregg system, filing, and typing.

Extracurricular activities beckoned the juniors also, and they invaded all fields. M. Thren, B. Siegle, and D. DiFulvio led cheers for the mighty performance of football star D. Fry and basketballers K. Morris and J. Rosol. Journalists K. Werner, J. Duchynski, and E. Heere helped in the production of our outstanding school paper. Writing captions and copy for Centralma kept K. Brailer, K. Sautel and J. Sylvester busy after school hours. Under the direction of Father Kelly, junior "forensickers", F. Lyons, M. Wasickanin, and R. Pisano talked their way to fame.

Red letter days occurred December 11 with the appearance of class rings and February 3, the night of THE prom. Juniors found the role of upper-classmen delightful, and happily awaited senior year.

Juniors followed diverse paths

Zajac, A. Shaulis.

Ready for a fun-filled evening, D. Watycha and S. Garszczynski arrive at a Friday night dance.

After the arrival of six homerooms from the annex, the class of '64 was united for a busy year. Delving into the mysteries of biology or listening to one's own voice played back by a tape recorder, sophomores met many new and exciting experiences.

Musician M. Billinger accompanied the hymns for the sophomore-freshman Holy Masses. B. Sedlack and J. Schifalacqua worked as cub reporters for Hillside Echoes. With the knowledge gleaned in the Centralma room after school hours, R. Bigos and S. Garszczynski aided in the publication of the school annual.

Scholastically, this class took the lead as 30 second year students became the proud owners of first honor cards for the first report. Hard work paid rich dividends for scientific-minded sophomores like K. May when their projects were accepted for the Berks-Reading Science Fair. Sophomores worked diligently to prepare to meet the challenge of the modern world.

When it comes to translating Caesar, M. Billinger and C. Boucher agree that two heads are better than one.

During a lull in traffic M. Urbaitis, M. Zeugner, C. Wernicki, and K. Vespico stop for a pause that refreshes.

King Autumn led a procession of 437 freshmen to Central from neighboring elementary schools on September 6. Of this group 310 were assigned to the eight homerooms in the annex while 127 students were caught in the whirl of activities at the main building.

Smiles grew broader as neophytes donned green bows for "that" day, sold subscriptions to Hillside Echoes, and cast votes for their representatives.

Joy of joys—Coach Schaaf chose C. Bisbano for the basketball team, and several freshman girls claimed positions on the JV team under the direction of Miss W. Murphy.

From her very first contest speech, E. Suppan blazed a trail of glory for the class of '65 in forensics. Writing essays and poems also proved a source of glory for the youngest classmen.

Essays and poems were carried in the national anthologies for high school students.

Following the life of Christ in religion class, solving Algebra problems, tracing the history of the world—this was part of the process of growing up. In the course of a busy year, the freshmen lost their green tinge and became true blue Centralites.

Freshmen began a four year-journey toward maturity

Activities

Let Christ be a host lifted in me, in places where otherwise
no Host comes;
Let me show His beauty,
His simplicity, His attractiveness,
in laughter, in tenderness,
in my interest in others' affairs,
in seeing the good in others,
fostering their aspirations, making myself, my heart—
not only the outside of me—accessible to them.

As F. Swavely reads the list of people being invited to participate in the Career Day Assembly, I. Endter, P. Lutostanski, W. Tucker, K. Mauger, J. LaManna, and K. Leshner prepare to issue the invitations.

Another cake, another dollar. B. Pomeroy and P. Garito spent a busy day transporting cakes to the market.

Preparations for the Career Assembly caused R. Jordan, K. Nearing, and M. Daley to dream about their own future plans.

As R. Sokol and M. Arnold examine a list of schools active in the N.H.S., they spot the name of their alma mater.

Spotlight On Character

Under the leadership of Prexy Robert Hehn, the National Honor Society had an active year. Early in the term, all energy was directed toward a successful cake sale at Kissinger's Market. The proceeds of this affair aided in the purchase of an electric duplicator to replace the outdated hand model. Daily duty of "N.H.S.-ers" consisted of helping to direct traffic and tutoring underclassmen. Once again this society sponsored a career day assembly. New on the agenda was an essay contest open to all sophomores, juniors, and seniors.

REPRESENTATIVES

Juniors: F. Borst, P. Eyrich, L. Losoncey, C. Pfautz, J. Stofko.
 Sophomores: F. Birmingham, M. Duddy, B. Harrer, B. Kozik, J. Miller, T. Raszkiewicz, J. Winterhalter.
 Freshmen: M. Borne, M. Deemer, B. Jones, C. Leddy, T. McCool, G. Purcell, R. Swoboda, S. Wolfskill, J. Flemming, R. Kowalski, G. Speece.

ASSOCIATE REPRESENTATIVES

Juniors: D. Eckel, J. Kennedy, F. Lucas, J. Prendergast, T. Snyder.
 Sophomores: D. Calabria, A. Curtin, J. Ganster, J. Knepp, J. Moran, B. Sedlack, S. Wilson.
 Freshmen: N. Aiello, J. Dewar, A. Jakabein, G. Klimcik, P. Patton, C. Price, T. Szydlowski, R. Vogel, N. Gallagher, J. Ludwikowski, E. Suppan.

As they count off packs for their respective homerooms, junior council members M. Kane, A. Shaulis, J. Piry, F. Lyons, and J. Duchynski sneak a preview of the career booklets.

N. Carabello puts his musical talent to use as he accompanies senior representative carolers, M. Ustazewski, J. Hydock, M. Kushmore, and J. Pietruszynski.

Holding an informal meeting in Central's "backyard," senior council members T. Bleicki, J. Klick, J. Weber, R. Hehn, M. Arnold, J. Purcell, E. Schifalacqua, W. Tucker, K. Kline, and F. Grube relax after school hours.

Treasurer M. Daly and secretary R. Jordan talk over arrangements for the Mardi Gras dance while enjoying a breath of fresh air.

After receiving the badges of their office, senior associate representatives A. Boland, M. Trexler, L. Noon, T. Hydock, and K. Mauger accept Father Fricker's congratulations.

Dabbling In Politics

Installation day, October 11, opened the door to another year of planning and figuring. Under the leadership of President Bruce Pomeroy, the student council took on the customary duties of directing traffic and arranging skating parties and the Friday night dances.

Highlight of the year for this active group was the sponsoring of the invitation Mardi Gras dance. All members worked hard to make this a successful enterprise.

Our student government group is a duly accredited member of the National Association of Student Councils of the National Association of Secondary School Principals. This adds prestige to its role as negotiator between faculty and students.

Telling Our Story

Headline problems, deadline headaches, missing photos—all these ingredients were blended with hours of fun to produce Centralma, 1962. After the organization meetings a theme was chosen and developed. Layouts were planned; pictures were snapped; writing and rewriting became the order of the day.

Highlights of the year for staff members included a trip to Villanova for the Press Conference. Co-editors P. Garito and E. Schifalacqua represented Central as a chairman and panel member respectively. Another thrill came in the Spring when a picture from our 1962 annual was featured on the cover of the Columbia Press high school publication.

All Catholic rating from the Catholic School Press and first class awards from Columbia Scholastic Press, National Scholastic Press, and Pennsylvania School Press for the 1961 edition made this year's staff determined to keep up the award winning tradition.

After our year of headaches and laughter we take pride in presenting Centralma 1962.

Relieved that another deadline has been met, M. Ustaszewski, photography editor, E. Schifalacqua and P. Garito, co-editors accompany S.M. Magdelaine, moderator, home.

Whenever sports staffers, W. Tucker, M. Spanier, F. Schuler, and M. Spangler got together, a heated discussion got under way.

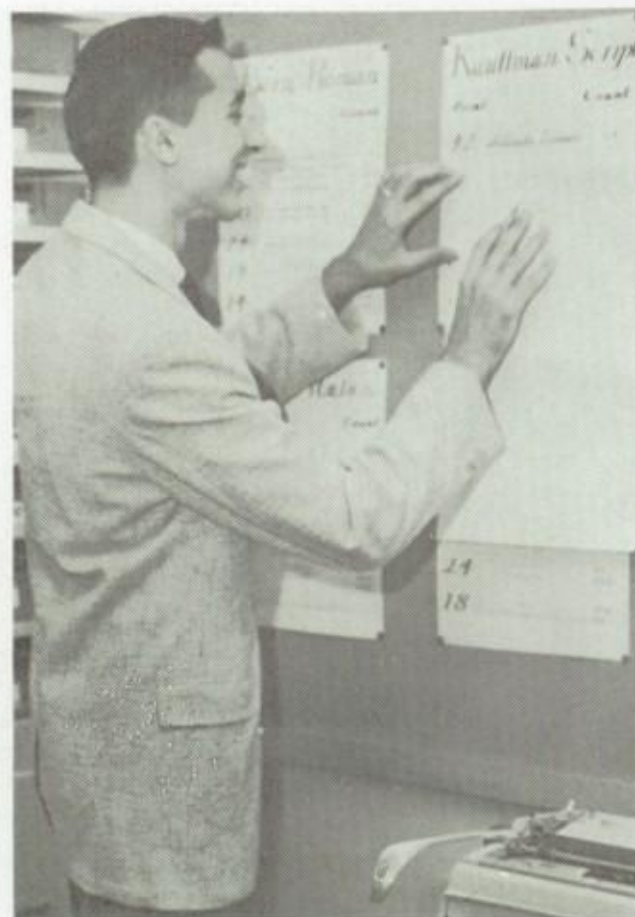

Compiled And Edited

Despite limited after-school hours, S. M. Alethia and her hard-working staffers turned out eight issues of a top notch publication. Proof of its excellence can be seen in the awards received during the past year—all-Catholic Honor Award from the National Catholic Scholastic Press; First Place Honor Ratings from Pennsylvania Scholastic Press, National Scholastic Press and Columbia Scholastic Press; and the Quill and Scroll "A" and International Honor Award.

Special highlight of the current school term was a 40 page book, Many Things. This first school magazine included short stories, poems, and other writing ventures gleaned from English classes. Of special interest to most Centralites, the November issue of Hillside Echoes, a six page edition, contained up-to-date accounts of various colleges and universities. Ivy league schools, middle-sized colleges, and small comparatively unknown institutions were all represented.

Editor-in-chief, T. Wright and I. Endter participated as speakers at the Villanova Press conference while Sister Alethia acted as moderator of a panel.

A victory smile flashes when R. Hehn discovers his headline will fit the page plan perfectly.

After many lively discussions managing editor I. Endter, moderator Sister M. Alethia and editor-in-chief T. Wright decide on the title of the school's first magazine.

Happy memories occupy sports editors K. Nearing and M. Daley as they relive the thrills of the past games via photos.

Centralites will read in the next edition the article that page editors A. Boland, M. Young, and M. Dolan are proofreading.

Preparing for an all-out sales campaign, J. Piry, J. Matuszak, J. Klick, and F. Swavely have a last minute chat before visiting homerooms.

Looks of consternation and smiles mingle as staffers B. Oswald, P. Gemmill, R. Palaferro, K. Leshner, E. Heere, K. Werner, N. Caraballo, M. Kane, T. Schlegel, C. Ciesielski and B. Pomeroy recall that the deadline for articles has arrived.

Strike Up The Band

Last minute details are on the agenda for F. Zolondek and color guard captain, M. Fordyce.

"Column left!" and Central's marching band makes its half-time entrance at a football game. Every home game saw our music-makers in their jaunty maroon and gold uniforms add sparkle to the half-time exhibitions. Precision marked every move as color guard, majorettes, and band members put on their performance.

Besides marching in several parades, Central's band wagon beat out melodies at school assemblies. But, all of this required work, and music majors rarely left school before four-thirty on Thursdays and Fridays. During the busy autumn season practice became part of the daily grind.

But practice paid special dividends to at least one Centralite. Edward Braun, a senior, was chosen by the Pennsylvania Music Educators Association to represent Central in the Pennsylvania District Band. Edward, a clarinetist, has been a music major for four years. This award winning musician boasts membership in both the marching and assembly bands.

Senior marchers line up for a farewell number.

Under M. Arnold's watching eye, R. Troilo, M. Fordyce, J. McLain, T. Hydock, J. Garvie, and M. Flemming execute a precise drill formation.

Returning from the Allentown Diocesan Tournament, members of the forensic team, K. McLaughlin, R. Chelstowski, T. Wright, R. Pisano, K. Werner, E. Schifalacqua, J. Schifalacqua, M. Johnson, and I. Endter display their individual trophies and present the sweepstakes trophy to Father Lechner.

Words From The Wise

Under a new moderator, Reverend Bruce Kelly, the forensic union continued its winning ways. Early in the season, practice sessions in extemporaneous speeches, original oratory, and declamation claimed the limelight. I. Endter, M. Wasickanin, E. Schifalacqua, K. McLaughlin, and B. Harrer represented Central in many of these affairs.

Optimist speeches gave several sophomore boys the taste of glory. R. Chelstowski, C. Walsh, and B. Jones received the first place awards in the local contests. Representing the entire district in the regional contest was R. Chelstowski.

March 17, the Monsignor Wachter Tournament saw three Centralites walk off with trophies. Sophomore B. Harrer won fourth place, junior M. Wasickanin edged into third and senior B. Pomeroy took first place.

Allentown Central Catholic played host to the entire diocese for the diocesan meet. Again, Reading Central led the list of winning schools by acquiring nine individual trophies plus the grand sweepstakes award.

When I. Endter and A. Boland travel to an extemporaneous tournament they pack a suitcase full of pertinent information.

Timing a radio program before taping it, B. Oswald announces that R. Troilo's selection will have to be cut.

During an afternoon practice session, senior T. Wright giving some helpful hints to sophomore and junior members J. Schifalacqua, S. Garczszynaki, B. Harrer, C. Pfautz, J. Oswald, and F. Lyons.

Weekly Communion brought many Centralites into closer union with our Lord. Father Forst distributes Holy Communion to annexmen.

Since a feast of the Blessed Mother is approaching R. Bigos and J. Kovach decorate her shrine.

With a few last minute alterations, library aides M. Kreuzberger, E. Siatkowski, K. Matt, and A. Grynastyl complete the Catholic Press Month display.

Living Our Faith

To understand Catholic philosophy is not enough; it must permeate our lives if it is to bear fruit. With this idea in mind, Centralites made use of the many spiritual benefits afforded them by attendance at a Catholic high school.

In order to alleviate the congestion in the gym, the student body was divided into two groups for attendance at Holy Mass. Juniors and seniors assisted at the Holy Sacrifice one week; underclassmen were given a like opportunity the following week. Daily visits to the Eucharistic Lord in chapel helped students to keep in contact with the Source of all grace. During Holy Week, books and studies were put aside, and everyone took spiritual inventory under the direction of competent retreat masters. Religion, students learned, is an integral part of daily living.

Despite winter's chill wind, P. Eyrich and D. Eckel collected greens for the annual advent wreath.

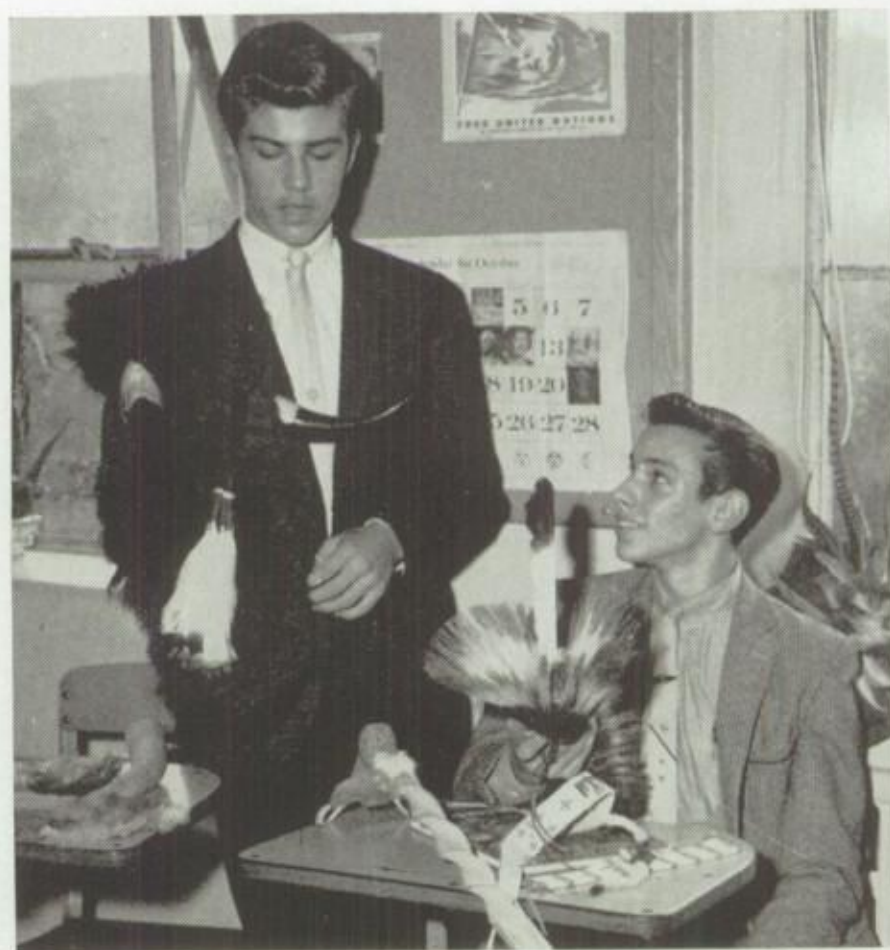

Preparing the way of the Lord. Each week, R. Sokol and M. Plau readied the gym for the celebration of Holy Mass.

Questions concerning Legion of Decency rating for some of the latest movies sent Sister Carletta, and K. Kline searching through a Catholic periodical.

Math can be fun for T. Blekicki, P. Buskey, Sister Silvine, F. Schuler, S. Wilson, and A. Cassell as they load Santa's sleigh with geometric Christmas designs.

Typical of American schoolboys, A. Bush listens with keen interest to R. Bosch's story about relics of Indians who once lived in Pennsylvania.

Unsung heroes of visual education. J. Ganster and C. Borst get the V. A. room prepared for another busy day.

Club Time Is Fun Time

Variety is the spice of Central's clubs. Languages, art, science, mathematics, careers, religion—all are represented in the galaxy of clubs from which students can choose.

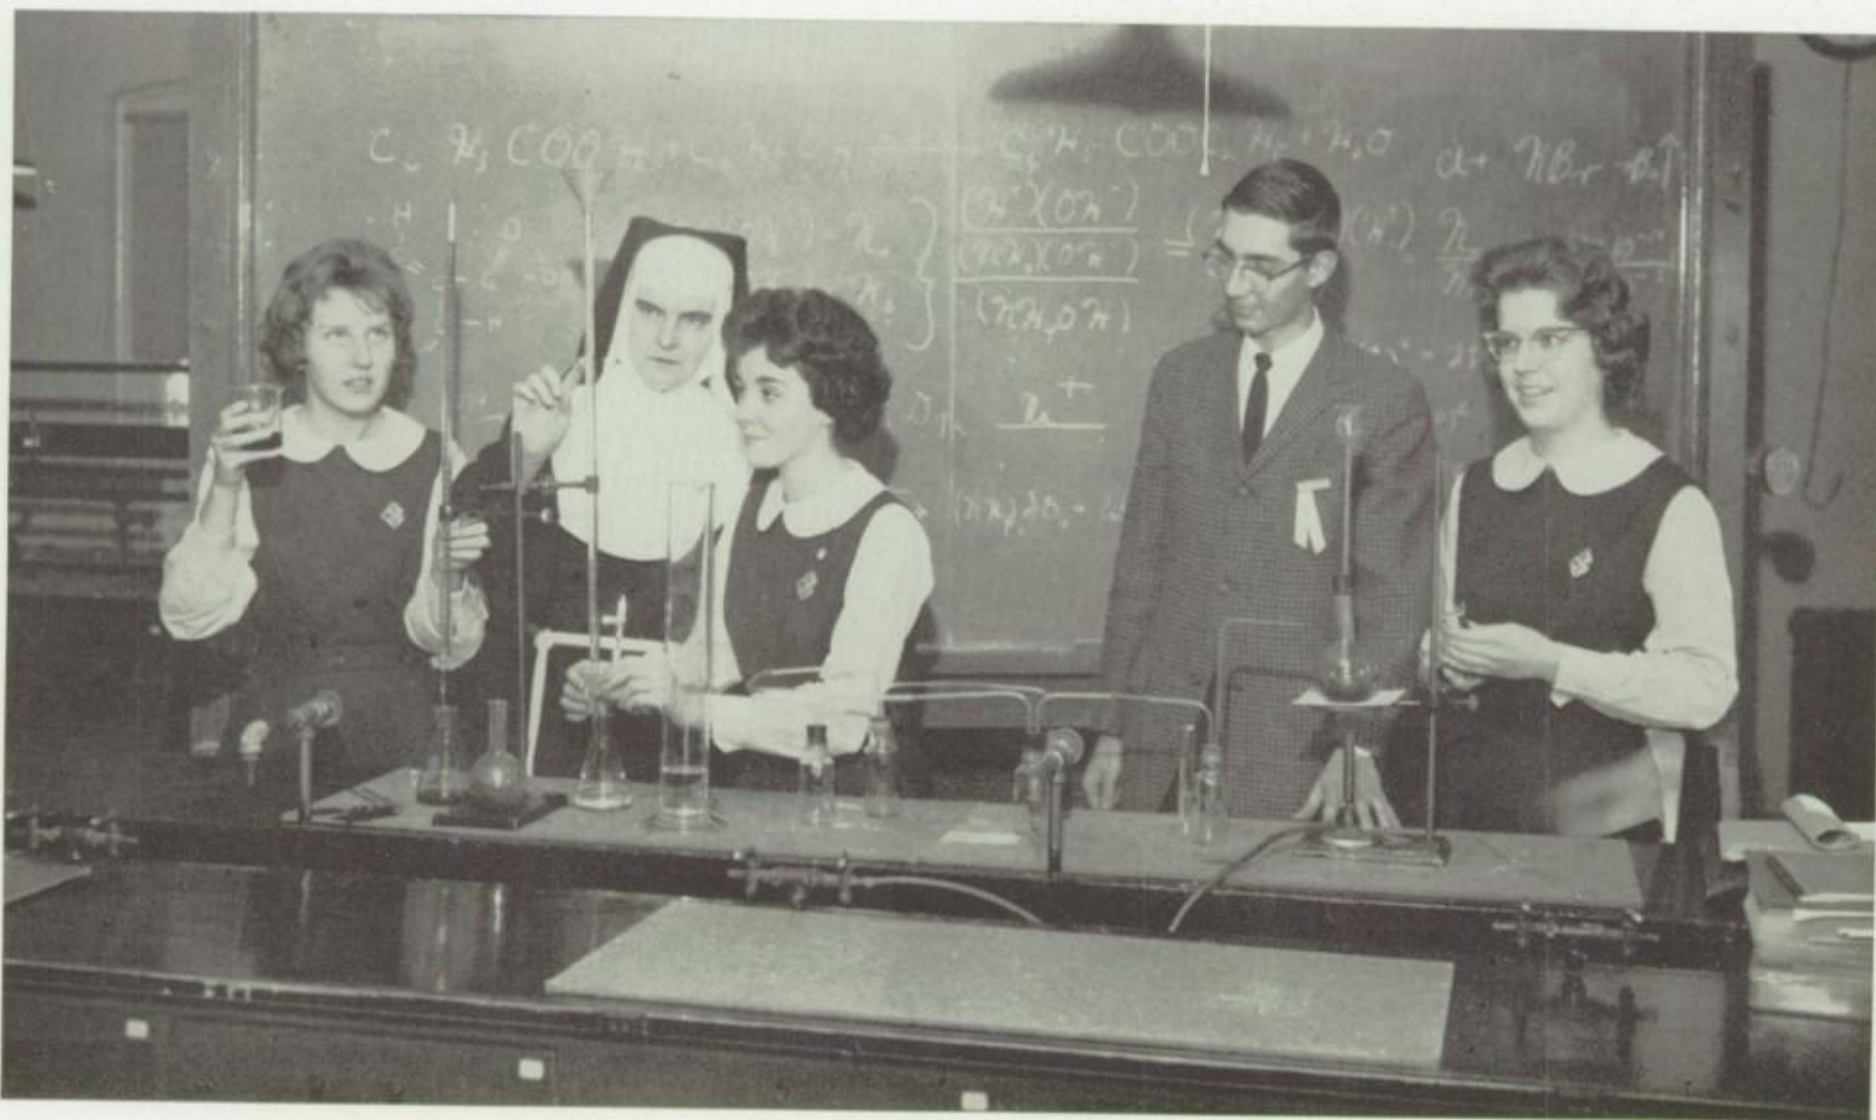

Noted for activity plus, the Future Teachers' Club presented an instructive P.A.S. program. Various historical events were commemorated in a similar manner by the history club. Then as spring rounded the corner, the French club appeared with an entertaining assembly—en francais, naturellement!

Ancient Rome lives again in the atomic age through the efforts of C. Seghetti and R. Piergrossi.

With a radio skit, "Eleventy Percent" future teachers, J. Mica, M. Behney, and J. Hydock observe National Teachers Week.

Intrigued by modern lab techniques, J. Wendell, S. Vandertie, J. Stofko, and P. Buskey follow Sister Thomas Irene's direction.

Sports

Let me reveal Christ in my games
in honesty, in justice, in fairness, in courtesy in kindness, in good sportsmanship, in my attitude of fair play.
Let me reveal Christ even when I fail,
in humility, in acknowledging my fault,
without servility, without morbidity, without the vanity which is amazed
by its own failure;
But asking His help and going on,
trusting Him.

Grid Review

Pre-game activity find Coaches S. and A. Hydock discussing possible plays.

C. Ciesielski receives aerial bomb from T. Bleicki as hapless Viking fails at blocking attempt.

Eleven lettermen greeted Coaches Steve and Andy Hydock as the Cardinal mentors initiated drills for the 1961 season. A combination of calisthenics, practice, and hard work dominated the pre-season preparations as the Cards dug in and readied themselves for a rugged nine game schedule.

Plagued with a series of injuries to key players, the Hydockmen launched their campaign with a somewhat dubious outlook. But uncertainty dwindled as the Hillroaders overran their first opponent.

Spearheading the offensive assault was a small but determined backfield and a powerful front line. Defensively the Cards held strong in all positions limiting their opposition to 88 points.

Team work and school spirit paid off for the Red and White as Central emerged with a 7-2 log and a secure hold on second place in the E.P.C.L.

Engaged in their own game, Card mascots J. and P. Driscoll tangle on the sidelines.

Central-Shenandoah Catholic

The Cardinals got off to an auspicious start for the '61 season by crushing Shenandoah Catholic 47-0. Senior L. Fox and sophomore F. Birmingham each racked up two T.D.'s. Gridders D. Fry, W. Liptak, and D. Wurster added to the score with 6-point tallies.

Central-Bishop Kenrick

Costly fumbling led to Central's downfall in the first home game of the season. Senior M. Kushmore's defensive play proved a bright spot for the Central eleven in this 18-0 loss.

Central-Pius X

Two placements off the toe of F. Birmingham enabled the Cards to eke out a 14-12 decision. J. Barra set up both Central's T.D.'s by recovering fumbles. Scoring honors went to L. Fox who registered a 6-pointer in both the first and third quarter.

Bear-hug tackle by G. Twardowski stops Kenrick adversary after short gain.

SENIOR SQUAD

Central-Nativity B. V. M.

Sparked by J. Purcell, Central emerged with a 21-14 win. Purcell bolted across for two touchdowns and plunged for the extra point following his second T.D. A safety early in the second period and F. Birmingham's touchdown produced the Card's score.

Central-St. Matthew

Once again J. Purcell led the Cards to victory, their first for the season in E.P.C.L. competition. Purcell registered our only T.D. and then added the extra point in this 7-6 squeaker over visiting St. Matthew.

Central-Notre Dame

Central displayed its offensive attack and came from behind to defeat Notre Dame by a 20-13 count. M. Kushmore's 52 yd. touchdown run opened the scoring. T. Blekicki and J. Purcell registered the remaining T.D.'s as the Hillroaders scored their fifth straight win.

In hot pursuit of Kenrick foe, L. Fox and T. Blekicki aim to limit the yardage of a Golden Knight.

Fine maneuvering by M. Kushmore proves of no avail as sticky McDevitt defense holds tight.

Central-Bishop McDevitt

Redbirds unleashed a powerful ground offensive and dug in tenaciously to beat Bishop McDevitt 13-6. M. Kushmore scored on a 53 yard gallop with F. Birmingham adding the extra point. Capping the Hill Road scoring, J. Purcell romped 14 yards to paydirt.

Central-Allentown Central

A brilliant first-quarter goal line stand ignited the fuse and the grid team exploded with three second period T.D.'s to defeat Allentown 18-7. Seniors T. Blekicky, M. Kushmore, and C. Ciesielski shared scoring honors for the afternoon.

Central-Lancaster Catholic

Inability to capitalize on scoring opportunities led to the Card's defeat at the hands of Lancaster by a 13-7 log. L. Fox scored the T.D. while F. Birmingham added the extra point. But a determined Lancaster eleven stopped scoring threats on two more occasions.

Redbird ballcarrier finds the going rough on an attempt up the middle.

In conference, Coach J. Schaaf aids G. Twardowski, C. Bisbano, M. Daley, C. Ciesielski, and K. Morris in revamping a Cardinal tactic.

Hardwood Hustlers

What Central's quintet lacked in points they made up in spirit. Team spirit, drive, and determination figured to be the deciding factor for Central's '61-62 loop campaign. This was the keynote of the entire basketball season.

Furnished with one returning letterman from last year and four new basketballers, Coach Joe Schaaf devised strategy and tactics to repel the various opponents.

In initiating their season, the Cards tasted defeat at the hands of Coatesville. In the subsequent encounters the Cards quintet appeared unable to ignite the spark and dropped a majority of their next half dozen contests. However they suddenly emerged from this dormant period and came back with a successful series. As a member of PSCL the Cardinal five placed fourth in the league with a respectable 8-8 record.

In the Allentown Diocesan playoffs the Red Birds stopped a mighty Marian Catholic foe only to lose to Allentown Central Catholic in the finals.

Scoring laurels for the season went to team captain M. Daley and center C. Ciesielski who chipped in 330 and 327 points respectively.

Launching the spheroid, G. Twardowski, focuses his shooting eye during the Reading High fracas.

Coach Willa Murphy looked toward the 1961-1962 girls' basketball season with considerable optimism. The return of scoring ace, D. Trout, made possible this rosy outlook. Hopes turned to reality as the lady cagers from Central combined a co-ordinated offense with a stingy defense to suppress all P.S.C.L. opposition and wind up on top in the final league standings for the second consecutive year. The unpublicized brilliance of Central's defense together with the teamwork of the offensive players and Miss Trout resulted in twenty and thirty point victory margins for the Hill Road lassies. The offensive unit provided 656 points while the defensive players limited all opposition to a total of 336 counters in establishing a 13-1 seasonal log. The Cardette's only setback was a 31-27 decision at the hands of an undefeated Pottsgrove sextet.

Strikes And Spikes

Mr. McLaughlin met 55 candidates including 13 returnees on the initial day of the practice season. Through the pitching ability of J. Notario and D. Fry, the Cards hope to regain the Suburban Catholic League crown. Catcher T. Raszkiewicz and infielders W. Stanton and D. Calabria also made an impressive showing.

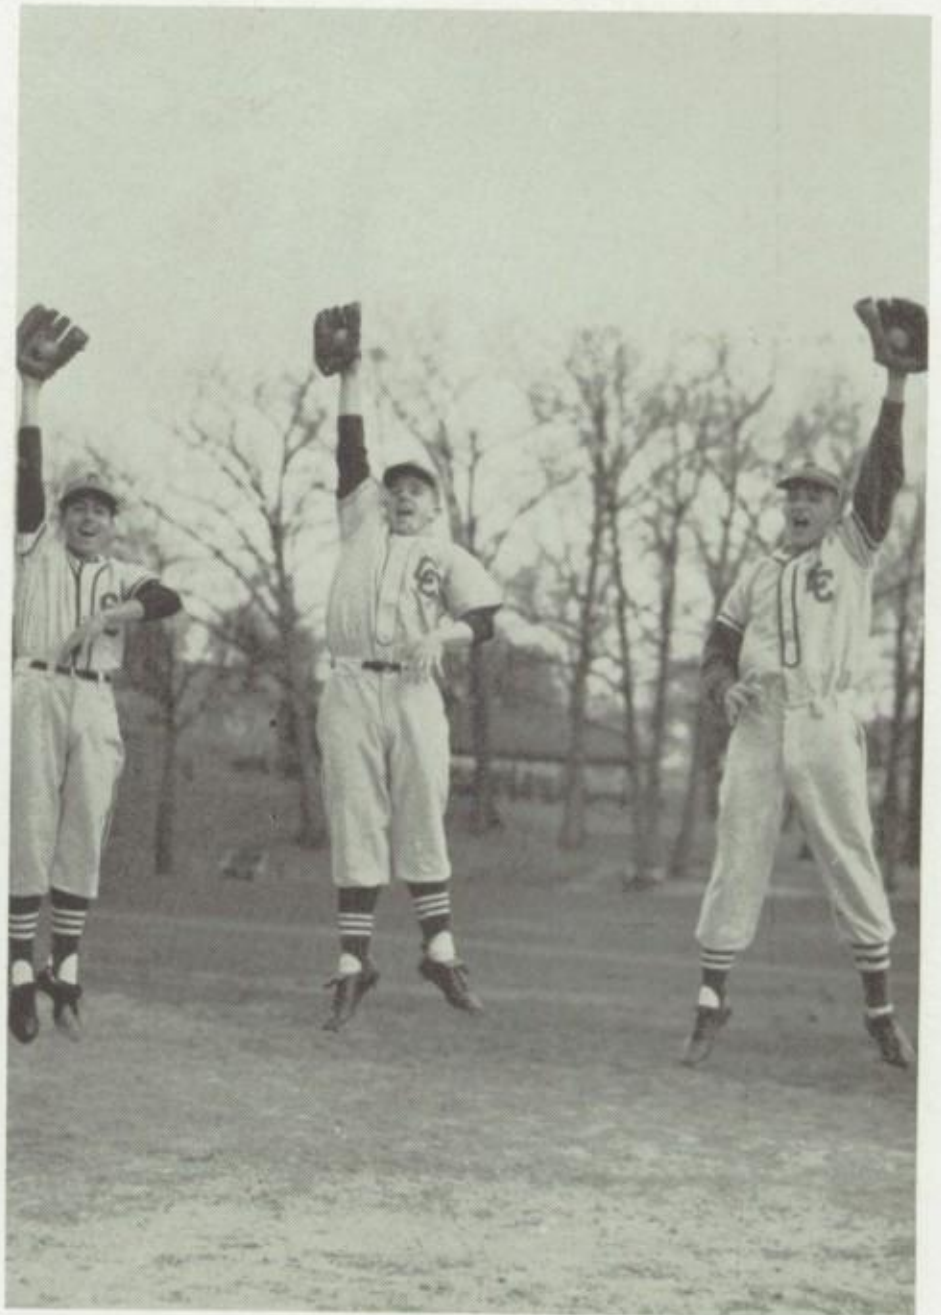

Future developments present a topic of discussion between M. Daley, team captain, and Coach J. McLaughlin.

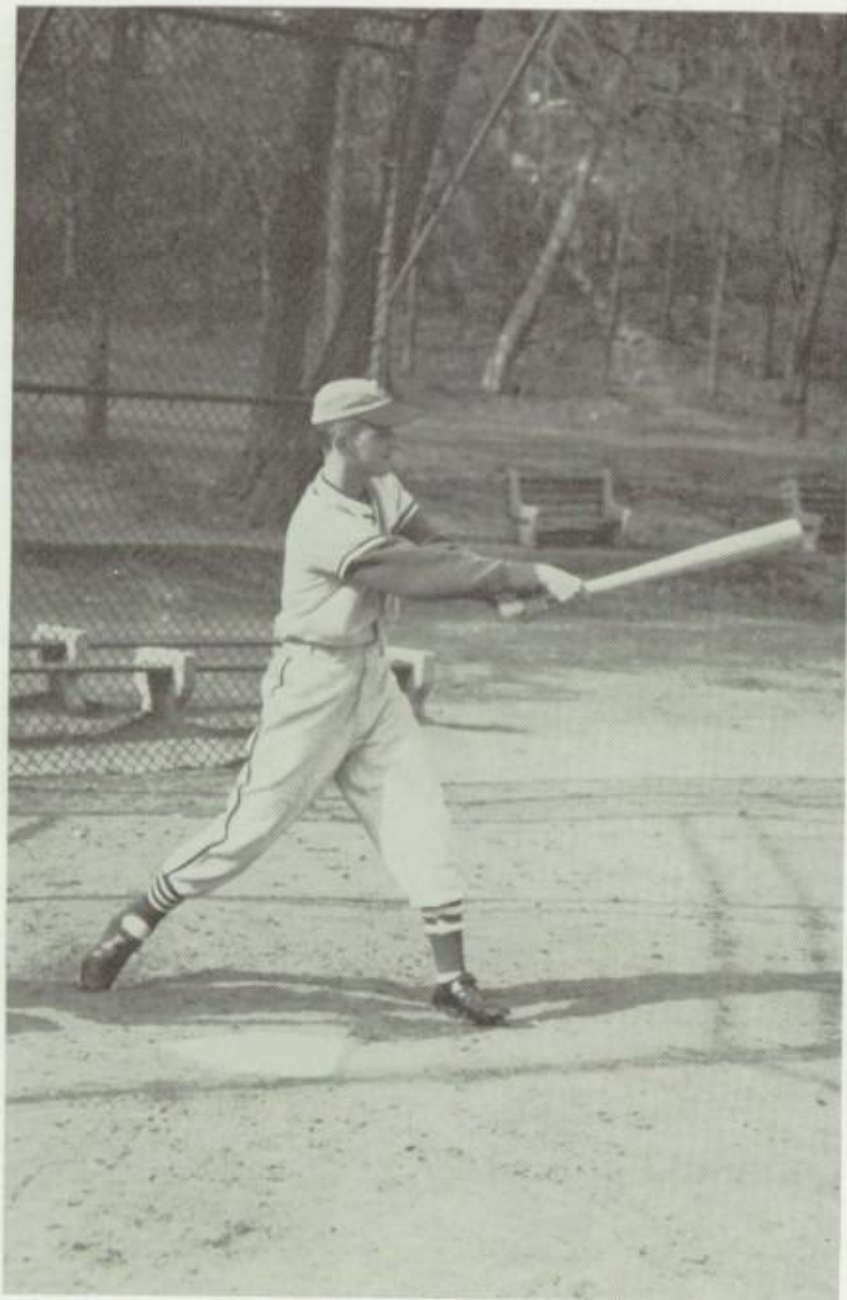

Caught in the "trap" a wary foe succumbs to the superior talents of W. Stanton and L. Losoncy.

Gun Smoke

For the second straight year, Mr. Wally Zuchowski coached the track team. Under his watchful eye and by means of hard work on the part of the cindermen a comparatively green squad became a top flight unit.

Straining muscles, T. Bleicki hurdles another obstacle on his way to victory.

Determinedly, J. Prendergast clears the bar at 5' 5".

Under the mentorship of Mr. R. Klein, Father Dickert's able successor, Central's golf team hopes to continue its winning ways. Returning veterans C. Chiarelli and G. Venzke assured a victorious season to the linksmen.

Front Row: G. Venzke, C. Chiarelli, G. Stark, J. Rosol. Second Row: L. Powers, J. Obudzinski, J. Winterhalter, T. Norman.

Features

Let me be to others a Christ,
loving with His love,
not with sentimentality and selfishness,
not asking for anything,
but with my own heart
an altar of sacrifice,
where He shall be offered for them,
in patience, in submission,
in compassion, in service,
in co-operation, in abnegation,
in wrestling with self,
and, please God, in dying to self.

The stage is a bevy of excitement following the announcement to the lucky contestant chosen "Freshie for a day."

Smiling over his adeptness at the art of tricycling, E. Noll takes the lead in an obstacle race.

Walking Little Nell (P. Gemmill) home constitutes an arduous but enjoyable task for Dudley Do-good. (T. Blekicki).

Greenie Parade

While greenies shivered, the seniors prepared for the long awaited Freshman Day. Promptly at 2 o'clock all the freshmen arrived in the gym where the mighty seniors put them through various ordeals. Based on the TV program "It could be you", the assembly was well-organized and even the freshmen found it entertaining. The last feature was a melodrama written by T. Wright and produced by an all-senior cast.

Suddenly green bows disappeared, and freshmen were considered true Centralites.

With a clash of cymbals, B. Hatt warns G. Purcell it's time to leave his barrel for another trek around the gym.

K. Kelly seems to be enjoying her job of delivering the daily paper to anxious readers.

"You're beginning to look better already," encourages P. Bender in answer to J. Sokol's hairdo attempts.

Shall We Dance?

Mid stars and blossoms, juniors enjoyed their night of nights.

Presenting their royal majesties—D. Eckel and J. Duchynski.

After hectic preparations, committee members M. Waskickanen, A. Sanchez, J. Kennedy, J. Good, and A. Cavallucci take a moment to admire their handiwork.

Radiant smiles testify that J. Duchynski, D. Eckel, P. Eyrick, J. Prendergast, F. Lyons and A. Shaulis enjoyed every moment of Prom night.

T. Bleicki, D. Di Fulvio, M. Thren and M. Kushmore enjoy a pre-prom party before heading for the Berkshire.

Our faithful chaperones testified that they enjoyed the night as much as we. Miss Field, Miss Murphy, Mrs. Stobenau, Dr. Stobenau, Father Kelly, and Mr. J. Fields enjoy a brief chat with Father Lechner.

Wonderland by Night added a star-studded page to the juniors' high school book of memories. On February 3, the ballroom of the Berkshire Hotel was all aglow as juniors danced the magic hours away.

Wes Fisher provided music for dancing in the festively decorated ballroom. Co-Chairman J. Duchynski and D. Eckel graciously accepted their royalty. All too soon the music died away, but Prom Night will remain a golden memory of high school days.

Getting Together

Leading the list of assemblies this year was a science program. Members of the Berks County Chemists' Club thrilled the students with a display of modern discoveries. Soon it was time for Father Zolondek's annual Christmas program which sent the students home with hearts filled with Christmas joy. Spring-time brought a delightful French assembly and an informative Career Day program.

All noises ceased in the crowded gym, as Father Zolondek opened the annual Christmas assembly with the beautiful story of the Nativity as related in St. Luke's gospel.

Shepherds come bearing gifts as angels hover in the background and Mary and Joseph adore the divine Babe.

Preparing to accompany and direct the chorus for the French assembly, S. Miller and B. Hatt enjoyed many a musical afternoon.

Venez a Paris mes amis. Artist R. Clemente receives a joyous oui, oui from M. Kalina and M. Behney, but Gendarme Michewicz seems hesitant.

V. Lawlor registers horror as J. Miller topples the cans.

With an eye to the future, M. Behney and M. Kalina gather information about the nursing profession from Misses Rutulo, Gieringer, and Miller.

With appropriate grimaces, Mr. Sycamore (M. Schaubert), Mr. Vanderhoff (W. Pawelski) Mrs. Sycamore (D. Hoopes) Mrs. Kirby (B. Hatt) Alice Sycamore (J. Bonano) Ed Carmichael (T. Schlegel) Mr. Kirby (W. Liptak) Tony Kirby (L. Fox) and Boris Kolenkhov (G. Twardowski) express their emotion concerning Mr. Kirby's misfortune.

With wrinkled nose and staring eye, the wounded Mr. De Pinna (M. Spanier) models for hard-working Mrs. Sycamore (D. Hoopes).

"Rhebishka, my little Rhebishka" exclaims Mr. Kolenhov (G. Twardowski) to the flattered Rheba (K. Leshner).

Sipping casually, Alice Sycamore (J. Bonano) and Tony Kirby (L. Fox) linger over fond memories.

On opening night, March 1, the living room of the Vanderhoff home came to life as senior thespians produced YOU CAN'T TAKE IT WITH YOU. Within this one room of the Vanderhoff domain meals are eaten, plays are written, snakes are fed, xylophones are played, printing presses are operated, life is enjoyed. This room epitomizes the entire idea of the play—to do what you want because you feel like doing it. Under the able leadership of Grandpa, the Sycamores, Carmichaels, and Mr. De Pinna follow this attitude explicitly. This is fine until Alice Sycamore brings home the boss's son. From this time until the final curtain hilarious comedy breaks loose. With spasmodic visits from the Internal Revenue Service, the Justice department and an inebriated actress, the Vanderhoff household is thrown into utter confusion. But before the final curtain, the Vanderhoffs prove that they have a right to do what they please. And they take complete advantage of it.

You Can't Take It With You

As Essie Carmichael (H. Matisick) prances to Ed. Carmichael (T. Schlegel) accompaniment, Henderson (N. Carabello) bellows at Mr. Vanderhoff (W. Pawelski).

Comparing notes on projects entered in the school fair are Sister Carolyn Joseph, Sister John Catherine, Sister Thomas Irene and Sister Evelyn.

For the fourth consecutive year, a Central student received the Grand Champion Award in the Reading Berks Science Fair. Held at Albright Field House on April 4, 5, 6, the fair included projects from twenty-three junior and senior high schools in the area.

Bruce Pomeroy, Grand Champion of the fair led a list of twenty-one Central medal winners in the senior division. Thirty medals were offered in the various categories. Not to be outdone by upper classmen, the freshmen produced the Junior Grand Champion, Kathleen Brynarski. Three other freshmen also received medals.

May 1, Bruce and his science teacher, Sister John Catherine, travelled to Seattle, Washington to attend the National Science Fair where Bruce placed first in the National Air and Space Agency division.

County Champs

First place winners P. Garito and J. Irwin listen to B. Pomeroy's instruction about his Grand Champion entry.

After receiving their medals, seniors K. Leshner, G. Radke, E. Schifalacqua, M. Dolan, B. Hatt, L. Tranovich, and I. Endter pose for a picture.

Displaying victory smiles, annexmen R. Mulligan, S. Stabolepszy, M. Flekenstein, K. Brynarsky, M. Wentzel and T. Guldun prepare to enter the main room of the Albright Field House.

Winner's circle. Centralites M. Kopel, J. Klick, T. Wright, E. McCaffrey, P. Wendell and P. Buskey captured all the second place awards in the senior division.

Now that their projects have been awarded prizes, J. DelCollo, L. Polinsky, P. Lutostanski, J. Stoiko, R. Hehn, A. Boland, T. Buskey and S. Garszynski take time to compare notes about their winning entries.

Symphony in the Spring

Saxophones, clarinets, and French horns follow the score . . .

Trumpets take their cue . . .

Junior girl chorus members blend in harmony . . .

And Father Zolondek directs the whole procedure.

Dedicated to Saint Cecilia, patroness of music, and to all the wonderful boys and girls who have been members of Central's music department in past years, the 1962 musicale consisted of favorite melodies from the past ten performances. Orchestra selections included William Tell Overture while the concert band introduced their section of the program with the Liberty Bell March. Among the Bel-Tones' offerings, the ever popular Scarlet Ribbons was enjoyed by the audience. All the themes of the past grand finales were blended to produce a balanced and well-planned finale for the program. Again the musicale proved to be a delightful, entertaining program.

Queen of our hearts.

Come in procession.

Early in May, Centralites gathered in the gym to honor Mary, God's mother and ours. The May Queen dressed in beautiful white bridal attire and her senior attendants wearing pastel dresses entered the gym as the entire student body sang Marian hymns. At an attractive shrine arranged in the front of the gym the May Queen crowned Our Lady queen of Central. After a brief sermon, the devotion ended with Benediction of the Most Blessed Sacrament.

Springtime in City Park makes a perfect setting for the members of the May Court as they walk in procession.

“... that I might save all.”

An End And A Beginning.

We have spent twelve years preparing. These leaves recount only the last and the best. With this we start out on a new adventure.

As you gaze upon the soft blue, whether you reminisce in tranquility or with the feeling of "it might have been" depends upon how deeply you have permitted yourself to become involved in the world around you. Only by selfless giving in imitation of the Divine Model can man completely find himself.

We of the staff of Centralma have tried to use as our theme the outstanding principle by which we hope to govern our future days.

With grateful recognition, we thank the following for their aid in preparing our book:

Sister M. Magdelaine, our moderator, coordinator and motivating force.

Father Leichner, the power behind it all.

The Senior Staff, who spent endless hours helping us.

Loring Studios.

F. A. Woerner, Inc.

Art Engraving.

Arnold's Book Bindery.

Seniors whose efforts were appreciated.

Junior staff who did so many of the odd jobs for us.

All the homerooms who contributed to the annual yearbook drive.

Eda and Peter

Mr. George Clump

Dona Ei Pacem

the faithful steward of many things temporal at Central whose measure of service heaped up and overflowing reached its climax October 23. May he now enjoy the eternal reward of a life well spent in the interests of God and all Centralites.

In Memoriam

Sister Alphonse Maria, O.S.F.

who left in the full tide of her activity, rich in treasures of the spirit and the love of faculty members and students. After "life's fitful fever she sleeps well." Her victory and glory spell Central's painful loss. However the echo of her influence and memory will roll from soul to soul.
